NIVL-RSITY OF TEXAS WHEN I WAS A GIRL IN MEXICO CHAPTER I MY BIRTHPLACE There is a fine street in Mexico City, formerly called Calle del Angel (Angel Street), and now named Calle Isabel la Cat61ica, after the renowned Queen Isabella of Spain. There at No. 2, which was a large stone house with the usual exterior balconies and interior court-yards of Mexican residences, I was born. This house was half a block from the National Library, the students delight, and not far from the Portales or Arcades, which are full of toys and candystands, the childrens delight. Of course I know little about that house, or how I spent my babyhood there, as when I was a few weeks old we went to live in San Juan de Letran Street. We resided there several years. Opposite to this house...
